To whom it may concern,

When I first met Nancy, I was initially struck by her warm and outgoing personality. It only took a few moments for me to realize that not only was she a captivating person, but that she possessed an extremely inquisitive and detail oriented work ethic.

Nancy has an incredible talent in being able to deeply reflect upon and thoughtfully explore the world from a variety of perspectives. This considered approach permeates her work - interspersed with equally deep reflections and experiences drawn from the pages of her own life.

I was particularly impressed to see these creative talents reflected within her professional work. Nancy would tirelessly pour her heart and soul into her writing. Whether this meant juggling her schedule to accommodate interviews or waiting for the precise moment to capture the perfect photograph, her dedication to subtle details and nuances was remarkable. This resulted in compelling storytelling which was augmented with stunning visual imagery. It was a real treat to see Nancy consistently submit her projects well ahead of the original deadlines, as well.

Her hard work and commitment to capturing the essence of the story is a true gift. It is an honor to offer my personal recommendation for her.

Sincerely yours,
